

In this age of jingoism fueled encroachment of civil liberties, the passage of any type of legislation furthering communications monitoring is terrible to think of.